

THIRTYTHIRD YEAR

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 1, 1922.

NUMBER 8.

EQUALIZATION

BOARD

Accedes to Demands of State

Tax Commission Adding Eight Per Cent Additional On Land, Town
Lots and Tangible Property

$1,600,000 Lower Than Last Year

After a month of hard work, trying in every way to look after the interests of the farmers as best it could, and at the same time bucking up against the State Tax Commission at Frankfort, in an attempt to hold down the assessment of Garrard county, the County Board of Supervisors were practically forced to accede to the demands of the Commission, by adding an additional eight per cent blanket raise on all lands, town lots and tangible personal property in Garrard county and to this end have sent out over 3,000 notices to as many land owners in the county. The Board of Supervisors deserve much credit for their work which has been faithful, with very little remuneration, in trying to reduce to some extent the burden of taxation, which at this time seems to fall too heavily upon the farmers in the agricultural counties of the state.

Every tax-payer in Garrard county should read a statement, published in this article, endorsed by the entire board, explaining in detail their past work and what they were up against in an effort to adjust equitably to taxes in Garrard county.

A Word From Board of Supervisors
The Record is authorized by the County Board of Supervisors to make the following statement:

"The total assessment of the property for Garrard County for the year 1921 was $16,382,201.

The total of the assessment made by the County Tax Commissioner for the year 1922 was $12,573,946, or a falling off in the amount of $3,808,255, almost Four Million Dollars.

The State Tax Commission ordered the County Board of Supervisors to raise this assessment $2,200,000 on Land, Town Lots and Tangible personal property, other than Live Stock. They will not accept a raise on Intangible or Live Stock.

The County Board of Supervisors worked diligently for 28 days equalizing, listing and adjusting the Assessors Books.

When this was done the total raise on Land, Town Lots and Tangible personal property was about $900,000.

Land and other property which had not been listed and which was assessed by the Board brought the amount up to $1,325,548.

This failed to meet the requirements of the State Tax Commission in the sum of $874,452.

The County Board sent the report in to Frankfort in this condition. The report was returned at once with the order that the total amount as ordered must be raised or Garrard County would be reassessed by the State Tax Commission at once.

It will require an addition to the assessment of all property, except Intangible and Live Stock, of 8 per cent of the amount.

This will add about $11,000 to the tax-payers of the county which will not be a very large amount when divided among 3,000 tax-payers.

The County Board of Supervisors being tax-payers themselves and anxious to do the best thing possible for the people has decided to add the 8 per cent to the assessment and settle the matter.

The Board before deciding to do this has given the matter careful consideration and has consulted many representative tax-payers and business men of the county and has arrived at this decision for numerous reasons.

First—It is evident that the State Tax Commission will do what they say and will make the reassessment at once.

Second—The County Board does not feel that the tax-payers can afford to allow these men to assess the county as no one knows what kind of assessment they may make.

Third—It will cost the county about $4,000.00 to pay the expenses of this assessment.

Fourth—The matter will be taken into Court before finally settled and Court expenses will have to be paid by the county.

Fifth—No taxes can be collected until the matter is settled by the Courts, which would probably be six months. In the meantime the county would be without funds with which to run the schools, roads and other

TOBACCO SETTING

Far Advanced Over This Time
Last Season

RAINS NOT GENEAL IN COUNTY

Although some fine rains in the southern and eastern sections of the county made excellent tobacco season, the northern section of the county failed to get any rains of sufficient quantity to enable the farmers to transplant their tobacco. The Buckeye section of the county is probably the driest section of any and owing to the rolling condition of the land, it is nearly impossible to use the "setter" in many sections of that community. The prospects for a fine crop was never better in this county and it is thought that three-fourths of it has already been transplanted. Farmers report all plants living with very little replanting to be done. The increase in the county over last year's acreage will probably reach 20 per cent.

CITY STREETS

Being Overhauled Preparatory
For Oiling

Contractors, Hughes and Ware are doing some fine work on Richmond street, which is about completed, making it virtually a boulevard, being pleasant to the eye and a comfort to the motorist. Stanford street to the city limits will be reconstructed by the same contractors, work having started on this street last Monday morning. The city council are to be congratulated upon this splendid work and just as fast as can be done other streets of the city will be looked after. Sometime in the next few weeks the oil will be spread over the entire city, which will eliminate the dust for the rest of the summer.

County Bread Contest

The winners in the Community Yeast Bread Contests, which have been held by Miss Joyce Syler will contest for the County Championship Friday, June 9th., at 2 o'clock, at the Woman's Club rooms, in Lancaster, Ky. The bread is to be baked the day before the contest.

Hudson and Farnau are offering two prizes $3.00 for 1st. prize and $2.00 for second. The 3rd. winner will be awarded a ribbon.

Miss Miller, Field Agent in Foods, of the College of Agriculture will be the Judge.

Methodist Church Notes

Next Sunday will be the last Quarterly meeting for this Conference year. The regular services will be held Sunday morning, followed by the administration of the Sacrament by the pastor. At the last Sacramental service we had a large attendance, and I am expecting a still larger attendance next Sunday. Will your place be filled co-worker, if not, why not? Rev. C. L. Bohon, P. E. will be with us at the night service and will do the preaching and hold the Quarterly Conference. Let every member be present.

The Cathole Base Ball team of the Cathole neighborhood, on the Danville pike will have an Ice Cream supper Saturday night, June 3rd. Everybody invited. Bring all the cats and kittens.

County affairs.

Sixth—If no taxes are collected before December 1st., all taxes would probably be subject to penalty of six per cent.

Various other reasons might be mentioned which shows what a condition our county would be in and there is no assurance that the case could be won in the Courts as the State Tax Commission is in a strong position.

Fayette County has decided to test the matter out in the Courts and our County Court has agreed to help Fayette County financially, to some extent to get the matter tested.

Some have suggested that the county Board wait until the matter is tested by Fayette County, but the County Board cannot do this as it will probably be six months and the State Tax Commission will not wait on this.

After adding the 8 per cent and meeting the requirements of the State Tax Commission the assessment of the county will yet be $1,608,255 lower than last year.

Notices will be served on all tax-payers in compliance with the law, but the Board feels that the equalization is made now as near as can possibly be made."

DREAM CITY

EXPOSITION

Opens in Lexington June 2nd.

Lasting Ten Days

With a riot of color, music and beauty, the Dream City Exposition will open at the Shelburne Warehouse at Lexington, Friday evening, June 2nd.

On the following days the doors of the great exposition will open at one o'clock in the afternoon and remain open until eleven o'clock at night. There will be two gorgeous and elaborate performances daily. Beautiful models famed throughout the United States will display the latest creations of the Parisian costumers, as well as gowns designed in New York. Wonderful, beautiful dancers will present novel and sensational dances in costumes that thrill with their beauty.

Toots, the famous Hippodrome clown will be there with his many side-splitting acts which have made him a star of clowndom. Light opera singers will present the latest song hits as well as selections from the greatest operas.

There will be many acts. The finest acts of vaudeville have been engaged for the Dream City Exposition. Thousands of dollars have been spent in presenting this great undertaking. Conveniences of all kinds have been arranged for the public. The warehouse has been transformed into a veritable fairy-land. Beautiful bathing models will promenade along the moon-lit ocean beach. Pretty kiddie models will show the latest in children's wear.

The management has promised that there will not be a dull moment in the Exposition.

MUCH WORK

Being Done on Garrard County
Roads by Supervisor Stapp

This is a day of rapid transit on country roads. The motorist moves along at twenty-five miles an hour. The truck driver covers a lot of ground, and the farmer is no longer satisfied to jog along to market at his former slow speed. Time is money and must be conserved. County Supervisor, Irvine Stapp, has taken out many of the bad places in some of the Garrard county roads, most notably among them, the new Danville road. Some important ditching has been done and done well. In a few days, we are told that the reconstruction of the Stanford road to the Lincoln county line, will begin and when completed it will be turned over to the State for future maintenance. Contracts for several miles on the Lexington road will be let soon and when completed, it also will be turned over to the State.

An Important Meeting

A congregational meeting of the members of the local Christian church has been called for next Sunday morning, June 4th. At that time the question of raising a fund with which to build a new church within the next two or three years will be placed before the meeting. The plan which will be suggested is that the members pledge themselves to give so much per year for the next three years, the minimum to be fixed at $5,000.00. At the end of three years or before if in the judgment of the congregation the amount warrants so doing, the building will be begun. The question will probably come before the meeting in the form of resolutions. Instead of a sermon, the matter will be presented immediately following the communion service. Opportunity for discussion will be given. Any one may be heard. All have a right to a voice and a vote. Hence all members, rich and poor, old and young, are most strongly urged to be present; and to come, after most serious thought, to vote as their best judgment dictates.

Liberal Deposit

The Peoples Bank, of Paint Lick, of which R. G. Woods is cashier, received more than its share of the tobacco money that was paid out to the Burley Growers on May 20th. The increase in deposits from this source alone netted the bank over $60,000, which sum is more than one-eighth of all the money paid out in both Garrard and Madison county on this day. Practically every farmer depositor of the Peoples Bank belong to the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association.

DECORATION DAY

Well Observed in Lancaster
Fully 2,000 People in Attendance

What was said by many to have been the largest decoration day in Lancaster was Sunday afternoon when three organizations of Lancaster, namely, the L. O. O. F. Lodge, the Knights of Pythias Lodge and the American Legion combined and decorated the graves of all their departed Brothers and Buddies, the graves of the Civil and Spanish American War veterans being remembered by the Legion.

The three organizations lined in column of twos and marched to the cemetery, headed by Messrs. Dalton Rich, Wm. Moberley and Wm. F. Miller, who represented the three organizations, each member carrying a bouquet of flowers. As soon as they assembled on the main drive way of the cemetery the flowers were gathered and the graves were decorated. The entire membership then moved to the vault, under the many pine trees, where services were held. Mr. Robert Hays acted as Chairman, introducing the speakers of the day and added much to the program. Rev. H. S. Hudson opened with a word of prayer, after which Judge L. L. Walker, representing the Knights of Pythias Lodge and the Legion, delivered a wonderful address, telling of the working of the Lodge and also the Legion. The next on the program was a quartette sung by Messrs. Walker, Crumlin and Curtis and Russell Sanford. The next was Judge Corn, of Harrodsburg, who brought a great message to all present. Judge Corn represented the L. O. O. F. Lodge. This was followed by another song by the above named quartette and Rev. E. B. Bourland was called upon to pronounce the benediction. The members of the three organizations then marched back to the Court House, where refreshments were served.

Taking the entire ceremony, it was beautifully carried out and well attended.

LOON EGGS

Secretary Abbott Possesses Odd
Specimens of The Great Northern Diver

Today G. A. Abbott exhibited two immense odd colored eggs which he had just received from the Red Deer Lake region of northern Minnesota. Abbott has spent considerable time about the White Earth Reservation of Chippewa Indians, near the Red River valley, and the specimens were forwarded to him safely by express.

The Loon constructs a large floating nest anchored to the growing vegetation on some uninhabited Lake in remote sections of Minnesota and the Canadian Provinces. A Loon leaves her nest at the approach of danger, diving beneath the surface of the water and reappearing several hundred yards away, where she cautiously observes the intruder. In color the eggs are deep olive green, spotted with vandyke brown, and are equal at both ends. They measure three and three-fourths inches long by an inch and four-fifths in width. The female never lays but two eggs and it requires four weeks to incubate. Both birds sharing the duties of keeping the eggs warm.

ANOTHER STILL

Captured on Kentucky River
Near Buena Vista

Sheriff James Robinson, with his deputies, Carter, Hicks and Morris are making it hot for the moonshiner in Garrard county. Last Friday night they captured a fifty gallon still near the Kentucky river below Camp Nelson, in Garrard county, but the worm and all of the finished product had been removed before the arrival of the officers. While no arrests have been made yet, but from what can be gathered from them some important arrests will be made in the next few days. Evidence showed that the still had been in operation for several months and perhaps many years. A well beaten path from the still led to the home of John Wearren, along this path wood and kindling could be found in profusion. He denies any knowledge of the still. Sled tracks led to the home of J. H. McKenzie, where several mash tubs were found and a quantity of mash, all of which was destroyed.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you." Let "Clarence" furnish the laugh at the School Auditorium June 5th., at 7:30 P. M.

BUSY BOOSTERS

Jolly Bunch From Lexington
Spend Two Hours in Lancaster

The two hours spent in Lancaster last Thursday by the Lexington boosters and business men, was entirely too short for the citizens of our town and community, who enjoyed their stay immensely. It would have been hard to get together a jollier bunch than they were and the good cheer which they brought will linger long in the memory of those who greeted them on that day. With a clamor of horns, bells, bands and voices they reached the city from Stanford, arriving here just a few minutes before eleven o'clock. A parade was immediately formed and the entire party of 125 or more, marched around the public square stopping in front of the court house, where several selections by the band was heartily enjoyed and brought out the populace by the hundred to give the boosters a hearty greeting. A special edition of the Central Record, with flaming headlines across the top of the front page, in red ink, with the words "Lexington We Greet You" was handed every member of the party. Col. G. B. Swinebroad from the steps of the court house welcomed them on behalf of the citizens of the town. This was followed by short addresses from members of the boosters, among them who spoke being Wood G. Dunlap, an old Lancaster boy, and one that shall always remain dear to the hearts of all Lancastrians. Several songs were sung and sung well by the visitors. The band music was fine and lots of it was dispensed to the pleased crowd.

Souvenirs were handed out to the ladies and children and a general handshaking consumed most of the time the party was in the city, except for the hour spent in the dining room of the Kengarlan, where a delightful lunch was served. Lancaster and her citizens enjoyed having these gentlemen and together with the Central Record hope that their future visits may be more frequent.

Following is a list of those who honored us by their presence:

Sensational Sale

One of the most sensational sales ever conducted in Lancaster begins tomorrow at Joseph's and lasts for fifteen days. Sensational, because of the heavy cut in prices, which has been placed upon every article in the house. A two page advertisement in this issue tells you something about it, and yet many important items were omitted for lack of space. Slashing reductions are made in the millinery department, as well as every department in the big store.

27 YEARS AGO

Culled From The Files of The Central Record May
31st., 1895

The petition gotten up asking the County Court to order an election on the free turnpike question, had been mislaid and could not be presented Monday. It is to be filed at the next county court provided it can be found.

Messrs. Theo. Currey, Owen Shugars and Jess Walden made a trip to Lexington on their wheels Tuesday.

An immense crowd was in town yesterday to witness the bicycle races, the ball game and attend the Knights of Pythias services. Theo Currey won the two mile race, the prize being a $15.00 suit of clothes.

W. C. Stivers, of lower Garrard filed suit against Miss Catherine West of the same neighborhood, asking $5,000 damages. The petition states that "on several and numerous occasions she agreed and promised to marry the plaintiff" and that he has always been ready and willing to marry her, but that she has failed to fulfill her promise and agreement.

The Hubble correspondent has this to say: The turnpike question has about exploded in this neck of the woods. At first it seemed to sweep everything before it like a cyclone, but after the smoke over zealous persons blew away and reason enthroned itself, free rides went a begging and no one feels now that he would better himself or the county by voting for free turnpikes. We admit a few would be benefited by the change, but many would suffer by it. To adopt free turnpikes would eventually resolve itself into mud roads and "what's everybody's business would be nobody's business" would be verified in every sense of the word.

20 Years Ago This Week, May 29th, 1902.

The young men of the graduating class, Messrs. Victor Stone, Ollie Wallace, Charles West, Lewis Gill and Marshal Denny entertained delightfully Friday night at the Garrard hotel their classmates, Misses Rarie Joseph, Ethel West, Bessie Batson, Cora Ward and Willie Belle Burnside. An elegant supper was served.

Messrs. J. E. Stormes and John Farra caught a nice string of fish in Cumberland last week.

Ruble and Williams bought of J. W. Scott and son, 90-100 pound lambs at 5 1/2 cents a pound. Tom Elkin has bought a lot of butcher stuff at 3 cents a pound.

Preachersville News: Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Holtzclaw and little baby, Clyde, were visitors at Mr. William Brown's at Hubble, Monday.

Forfeits Bond

Jonah Tussey, held under $400 bond in Judge Treadway's court failed to appear before the court yesterday and his bond was forfeited. Tussey is charged with drunkenness, and having whiskey in his possession. His bondsmen were given until June 15th., to bring the gentleman into court.

Lilburn East and J. H. Clouse confess two plain drunks in Judge Treadway's court yesterday and were given $25 fines each. East paid his, and Clouse was remanded to jail in default of payment.

Popular Knight

It is a source of regret to his hundreds of friends in Lancaster that Brown Cogar, who has been representing the N. L. Currey Grocery Company, of Danville, is to leave the road, he having made his last trip for this firm yesterday. There is no more popular knight of the grip who "makes" Lancaster than Brown, and his friends here hope that in casting his future lot in whatever vocation, this town may be on his itinerary.

Open Air Service

Don't fail to hear Rev. T. W. Beeler and his sister in an open air service at the Court House, Lancaster Ky., Saturday afternoon at 3:00 P. M., June 3rd., 1922. Rev. Beeler is an Evangelist of the Methodist church. He is an interesting speaker, having spent two years in France in the air service during the late war. He will begin a revival at Cartersville, Ky., with Rev. M. L. McGraw, a converted railroad engineer, Sunday, June 4th. Everybody welcome.

Business meeting at the church Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. All members are urged to be present, as there will be some very important business.

Mrs. L. F. Brown, Mr. Bascom Brown, Miss Lora Brown and Mr. Billy Cotton spent Saturday in Richmond and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Buford West.

Mrs. Belle Pherigo, of Lexington, and Mrs. W. T. West, of Bowling Green, have been visiting Mesdames Edd and Otto Simpson and Tilden Hoover and attended church here Sunday. Their many friends were glad to see them as this was their old home church.

Robin Red Breast

During the icy March of chill and gale,

Naked hedges and fields so bare, Our perky Robin jerked his tail And rustled for his bill of fare. Before the pond entirely thawed Maple trees were tapped for syrup, Yonder beach, an old crow called Robin Red breast scolded and chirped. Eventually his mate appeared

Welcome and accepted guest, Around the orchard he sang and cheered,

But now that worms are everywhere, And days are long and hot He seems entirely free from care As he hops about the lot. Sun-up or twilight hour

How prone he is to hide No recital from orchard bower, He's completely satisfied.

Horrid Thing!

"We had a splendid time in the country," said Mrs. Newrich, "and my husband has turned out to be a good shot. The men went out one day to do some shooting, and my husband got what they call a bull. And some mean old farmer made him pay for it."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Dead Sea Stone.

On the shores of the Dead sea and west of that sea between Jerusalem and the vicinity of Nebi Musa is found a peculiar stone. The stone, which is abundant, is commonly used by the local people in making souvenirs. It is a matter of common knowledge that the Bedouins have used this stone for several years as fuel.

FARM ANIMALS

BLACK COLOR IS HEREDITARY

Feeding and Management of Sheep Have Nothing to Do With Appearance of Black Lambs.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The appearance of black lambs in a flock made up entirely of white sheep has been for ages, and is still, a cause for wonder and the basis of superstitions. But the study of the laws of breeding and heredity has explained the reasons for the sporadic appearance of these off-color specimens. In a letter to a farmer who reported 25 black lambs from a flock of 175 purebred Shropshire ewes, all white, and who considered certain feeds the cause, the United States Department of Agriculture gives a clear statement of the principles involved.

Feeding and management of sheep, says Dr. Sewall Wright, specialist in animal genetics, have nothing to do with the appearance of black lambs. The black color is hereditary even though it may be transmitted by ordinary white sheep. The black color in such a case is what is called a recessive character. White sheep which transmit this character at all transmit black in 50 per cent of their reproductive cells (ova in the case of ewes and spermatozoa in the case of rams) and white in the remaining 50 per cent. Thus, such white sheep mated with blacks (which can only transmit black) produce 50 per cent black lambs and 50 per cent white. All of these white lambs can transmit black.

White sheep which transmit only white, mated with blacks, produce only white lambs, but all of these lambs can transmit black. When both ewe and ram are white, but both transmit black, about 25 per cent of the lambs are black, 50 per cent are white, which transmit black, while the remaining 25 per cent are true-breeding whites. In this case it is an even chance that a given ovum will transmit black and an even chance that it will be fertilized by a male cell which transmits black, making one chance in four that both transmit black, which is necessary for the production of a black lamb.

With 25 black lambs appearing in the flock, it is indicated that about 100 of the 175 ewes transmit black, assuming that all of the rams used transmit it. If not all the rams transmit this color, then it is probable that an even larger number of ewes transmit it.

Department of Agriculture Bulletin 905, Principles of Live Stock Breeding, contains a detailed discussion of this problem. It may be obtained from the superintendent of public documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., for 15 cents.

DRY BRAN GOOD FOR HORSES

Better for Animals Easily Purged Than Warm Mash—Easy on Digestive Apparatus.

In cases of horses that are easily purged, it is better to give dry bran than a warm mash, and good clean bran may, with benefit, always form a portion of the dry food of all sorts of young horses, as the mineral constituents will be available as bone-forming material. In most cases of illness a bran mash may with safety and benefit be given, as it does not overtax the digestive apparatus, but when there is evident irritability of the bowels, as in diarrhea, etc., it is better to give bran in a dry state than in the form of a mash.

A warm bran mash is, however, of great service to horses that are working hard and receiving a large amount of grain. It should be given on the Saturday night, or any other time when the horses are resting the following day, as it has a decidedly laxative effect on the bowels. Bran in a dry state is an astringent, but in the form of a mash it is a laxative. If given once a week it will counteract the feverish symptoms which are supposed to result from high feeding, but this should not follow if a proper system of feeding is adopted.

EXCELLENT FOR YOUNG PIGS

Pasture Supplemented by Limited Grain Allowance Is Fine—Animals Kept Thrifty.

Good pasture supplemented by a limited grain allowance is an excellent ration for young pigs. The pigs on pasture not only make cheaper gains, but the succulent feed and exercise they obtain aids in keeping them thrifty.

How an EXPECTANT MOTHER Prepared for Baby's Coming

DO YOU know that thousands of women never really suffer at child-birth? Perhaps you have thought with many others that this should always be the case. But how?

Let Mrs. Mattie Paul, of Ocilla, Ga., tell you. She is one of thousands who has demonstrated this fact:

"As I am a young mother of one baby, I am writing for free booklet to 'expectant mothers.' I used only two bottles of Mother's Friend before I was confined and had a quick and easy time through labor. I can recommend Mother's Friend to all expectant mothers. I will never go through pregnancy without it."

You, too, can have this booklet for expectant mothers by sending coupon below.

Jury service is one of the first duties of citizenship. It is one of the last duties the average citizen is willing to perform.

Men of character and ability who are possessed of the qualifications necessary to the rendering of fair and intelligent verdicts will go to great lengths in order to evade service on a jury. At the same time they will criticize the verdicts of those who are willing to serve.

The average man feels that he cannot afford to neglect his business interests in order to spend two or three days or a week in a jury box at small pay. The financial sacrifice such service entails is a barrier between him and his duty to his community. He forsakes duty in his efforts to evade the sacrifice.

In too many cases this attitude fills the juries with men who are no fitted morally or intellectually to perform their duties without fear or favor.

The result is spread broadcast over the country in the form of criminality that appears to be unchecked and constantly on the increase.

The law of nature requires that we reap as we sow, and even now the hum of the reaper is deafening in our ears.

Some people are perfectly willing to feed millions of dollars to the birds—provided they are other people's dollars.

Europe never tires of importuning this country for great loans, while at the same time they are spending their own money on the maintenance of immense armies.

With Europe on the brink of another war, with industries torn and disrupted, with bolshevism boring under the surface, with hatred and distrust everywhere, it is difficult to understand how adequate security can be offered for such loans.

International bankers and bond houses may advocate them, but such concerns do not as a rule invest their own money. The guillible public supplies the "dough" when it buys the bonds. And incidentally, Mr. International Banker slices off his full pound of flesh by underwriting the bond issue.

If we have any money to feed to the birds we can find plenty of the feathery tribe in our own yards.

Feeding, like charity, should begin at home.

For many years the women of this country have been demanding equal rights with men in the matter of voting and holding office.

Man, realizing the justice of their demands, has conferred the right of franchise upon them.

Is woman making the most of her newborn freedom and independence? She is not. The toy is becoming old, and rather troublesome. It does not appeal as strongly to her as it did when it was a forbidden article.

This is to be regretted, for men of character had hoped that the women would aid in driving the crooks out of public office.

Upright and honorable officials feel just as keenly on this subject as do the laymen who are disappointed in the dwindling feminine vote.

When the women are in strong force at the polls the crooks and the professional branches have a hard road to travel.

With women becoming indifferent and remaining at home on election days gang rule will become as firmly established as ever before.

Women, as well as men, owe a duty to their country.

That duty, having been assumed, should now be performed.

Steadily Improving

People who expected to see the United States resume its normal status following the war were disappointed.

Those who pinned their hopes to a slow but gradual readjustment are witnessing the vindication of their judgment.

Neither wages nor prices will ever go back to the pre-war level. Men who have enjoyed a long taste of high wages and easy work will not willingly return to long hours and grueling toil and poor pay. Manufacturers and dealers who have reveled in sky profits will fight shy of the old system of slim pickings and few of them.

That is human nature, and nature makes all laws and regulates all things.

It was, however, manifestly impossible to maintain wages and profits at the sky peak of war days. Abnormality may prevail for a period, but in the end it must give way to rational thought and action.

Prices of necessities, and of even luxuries, have been steadily declining for a long time. The same is true of labor, and of all of the raw materials that go into construction or production of articles of daily use.

The fall has been slow but gradual, and some time must still lapse before we reach that level which insure the return of a full measure of prosperity to the country.

The situation, however, is fairly satisfactory and full of promise, and the future is bright to those who can see.

Baptist Church News

Last Sunday was a day of blessing and inspiration throughout. The pastor's report of the Convention was well received and furnished abundant reason for thanksgiving for what God is doing in every department of our church work on the home and foreign fields. The outlook for the present year is bright, with increasing evidence of returning prosperity.

The outlook for the work on the local field is promising. Loyalty to our Master, to the task in hand and consistent team work in all our undertakings will mean the most prosperous year in the history of the church. Shall we work and pray to this end?

The Cadillac car was chauffeured to victory in the auto race by Lillian Estes and her class of girls. They reached New York several miles in advance of the other cars, and were given hearty applause for their splendid work. They will now return and assist in pulling some of the other cars to New York. Our attendance last Sunday was not up to standard, however, and we need to "take a brace" for more strenuous efforts to reach our goal—200.

The service Sunday evening was of unusual interest. Prof. Baird brought us a great message, and the quartet of young ladies and gentlemen won the hearts of all by their wonderful rendering of several Gospel songs.

On next Monday evening, June 5th, the Senior Class of Berea College will present a four-act comedy entitled "Clarence" in the Lancaster School Auditorium. This entertainment will be given under the auspices of the B. Y. P. U. Berea College very kindly granted permission for the young people to come, and all lovers of good wholesome amusement will no doubt show their appreciation by their presence at the auditorium next Monday evening. Read our advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

Let us forget—Next Sunday is reception service day. How about that church letter? Dig it up if it is in your trunk or elsewhere, unused, and rededicate yourself to the Lord by presenting yourself for church membership next Sunday. The pastor will preach his monthly sermon to the young people. The Lord's Supper will be administered at the close of the morning service.

The B. Y. P. U. service at 6 o'clock followed by song service and preaching at 7:30.

Members and visiting friends are cordially invited to our services.

Pay Cut on 400,000

Railroad Men

More than $48,000,000 is slashed from the pay of 400,000 maintenance of way men at work for the railroads in a decision by the United States Railroad Labor Board Sunday night. This averages a cut of 5 cents an hour in wages that run from 28 to 40 cents an hour. The three Union members of the Board dissented. If other reductions now pending are put into effect it will mean the virtual wiping out of the $600,000,000 awarded to railroad men in 1920. Railway executives think this will open the way for employing 200,000 more men. The reductions, it is claimed, are in line with the reduced cost of living, and, it may be added, with the reduction of 10 per cent in freight rates last week. All this is effective July 1st.

TRAGIC DEATH

William T. Swope in Fatal Accident Near Bryantsville

One of the greatest shocks that this community has ever experienced occurred Sunday about noon when the tragic news came that Mr. William T. Swope had been thrown from his motorcycle and instantly killed.

He had started with a friend, Mr. Earl Wylie for a ride and had gone about 2 or 2½ miles on the Lancaster road when his machine struck a deep rut in the turnpike, causing him to lose control of it, and throwing him several feet. When assistance reached him, it was found that his neck had been broken and that death had come instantly. The accident occurred just in front of N. J. Gosney's.

"Willie," as he was called by all his friends was a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Swope and one of the most popular young men that ever lived here, and was widely known as his entire life had been spent here with the exception of the time he was in camp at Hattisburg, Miss., and in service overseas, where he served 18 months. He was one of the first boys from Garrard to enlist when the U. S. entered into the World's War. His friends were counted by his acquaintances and of all the tragic deaths that have ever happened here, none has ever cast a deeper gloom and caused a greater sadness. He was in the prime of manhood as he was just entering his 29th year. He was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Swope, by whom he is survived also by two brothers, Messrs. A. B. and Robert Swope and one sister, Mrs. Harry Edwards, who have the sympathy of every one in their bereavement.

Mr. Swope united with the Methodist church in early childhood and the funeral services were conducted at the home Wednesday by his pastor, Rev. A. P. Jones, of Wilmore, burial following in the Lancaster cemetery at three o'clock.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. Earl Wylie, Andy Croushorn, Thomas Henry Edwards, Fred Sutton, Sam Halcomb and J. Hogan Ballard.

The beautiful floral offerings bear mute testimony of the love and esteem to his hosts of friends to whom his death came as such a dreadful shock and to the sorrowing ones who are left behind, the community mingles its tears and sorrow.

Don't Drop Lighted Cigars on Wooden Floor Bridges

Don't throw away your cigar or cigarette when crossing a bridge with a wooden floor, advises the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. It may start a fire that will destroy the bridge.

Many such fires are started. Most of them are put out with small damage, but occasionally a large structure is destroyed. It seems strange by fire, but heat from a burning floor may cause the destruction of the whole bridge by softening; the breaking of one weakened member will cause the whole span to drop into the river. On some large bridges a watchman is kept to guard against this danger, and in a dry season fires have been known to occur almost daily.

A committee composed of a representative of the bureau and representative of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the lumber and creosote industry, and the Engineering News-Record, a prominent engineering magazine, is now investigating the subject and considering the best means of protection.

Majority of Sheep Have Stomach Worms

Practically every flock of sheep in Kentucky is infested with stomach worms, according to L. J. Horlacher in charge of sheep work at the College of Agriculture. However, by using proper preventative measures, farmers can keep the infection from becoming very serious and send their lambs to market in prime condition, he pointed out.

"On the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station farm we have found that rotation of pastures is one of the best means of prevention. Whenever possible, ewes and lambs are changed to fresh pastures every two weeks from the first of June until the lambs are marketed. It has been found that if the pastures are kept in good condition, the infestation will not be as serious as it is if the grass is kept cropped short.

"Rape, oats, clover and vetch all make excellent crops for alternating with permanent bluegrass pastures. Lambs which are kept free from the worms by these preventive measures will be ready for market much earlier than those which are troubled with them.

"If the sheep become infested with the worms, they must be drenched, copper sulphate, commonly known as bluestone, being best for this. One-fourth a pound of the pulverized material is dissolved in a pint of boiling water and enough water added to make three gallons. This is sufficient to drench 100 adult animals, each one being given three and one-half ounces of seven level tablespoonful. Lambs receive half this amount. It is necessary to keep the sheep off feed for 12 hours before drenching and care also should be taken not to strangle them while the drench is being given. Details of controlling stomach worms may be obtained by writing the Experiment Station."

Will Breed of Soft Hogs Result From Peanut Feed

Is a soft, oily fat on a hog, produced by feeding peanuts, a characteristic that can be inherited and that will persist regardless of the nature of the ration fed the offspring? That is one of the interesting questions to be investigated by the United States Department of Agriculture at the experiment farm at Beltsville, Md. Both the bacon and lard types will be used, the former to be represented at the start by 4 Tamworth gilts and the latter by 4 Poland China gilts.

From weaning time until their first litters are weaned these 8 gilts will be grown and fed on a peanut ration. From the time of weaning their pigs will be fed on some hardening ration, such as corn and tankage, and will be compared with a check lot of pigs whose dams were fed on hardening feeds instead of peanuts during their development and gestation periods. When the pigs have been grown out and finished, some of each lot will be slaughtered to determine whether there is any difference in the carcasses; that is, if the peanut ration fed to the mothers has made it more difficult to put a hard flesh on the offspring with corn.

WAR FINANCE
HEAD PRAISES
BURLEY POOLEugene Meyer, Jr. Spends Busy Day in Lexington on Tour of Southern Marketing Associations

Lexington, Ky., May 25—Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the war finance corporation, spent yesterday in Lexington as the guest of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, lunched with the officers and directors of the association, purchased three Kentucky saddle horses from W. M. Jones of North Middletown, delivered an address on the aid given co-operative marketing associations in the United States to an audience in the ballroom of the Phoenix Hotel, conferred with representatives of the war finance corporation in Kentucky and left for Chattanooga on a tour of the South, which will take him to Atlanta, and will include a number of conferences with representatives of co-operative marketing associations in several of the southern states.

Mr. Meyer delivered before his speech at the Phoenix Hotel that even if the war finance corporation had not full confidence in the movement in Kentucky there would have been no doubt on that score after he had met the splendid men among the leaders of the association and who compose its board of directors.

President James C. Stone presided at the afternoon meeting at the Phoenix hotel. He paid tribute to Judge Robert W. Bingham as the tobacco grower's friend. Judge Bingham was cheered for a minute before he could introduce Mr. Meyer, the audience rising.

Judge Bingham Speaks
Judge Bingham told of the meeting of the growers at Elizabethtown Monday. He said he had been told that similar conditions existed in all the other counties, that the growers are satisfied, and that they would not return to the old way of selling.

He said that the war finance corporation had been of immense aid to the burley growers, not only in aiding in the financing of the second payment in part, but in the credit securing to the association from the backing of such an institution as the war finance corporation in the orderly marketing of its crop.

Mr. Meyer, in his address, said it was probable that the war finance corporation would be continued for another year and said that recommendation had been made by his office, in connection with pending legislation that would liberalize the attitude of government financing toward the agricultural producers.

Mr. Meyer was accompanied by G. C. Anderson, of New York, general counsel for the finance corporation, and Floyd R. Harrison of Virginia, assistant to the managing director. He was met at the station by President Stone and Judge Bingham and spent the morning visiting places of historic interest in and about Lexington and seeing the famous race horse, Man o' War, at Hinata farm.

Approves Co-operative Plan
"We have loaned millions of dollars to co-operative marketing associations," said Mr. Meyer, "and our relations with them have been satisfactory in every way. The business requirements of the war finance corporation have been met by them like the best and oldest established corporations in the country."

"I believe that co-operative marketing has been the salvation of the southern cotton situation, and I hope it will do as well for the tobacco growers as it has for the cotton producers."

"There is no better collateral for loans than good American staples, when properly warehoused and properly inspected on a reasonable valuation. Not only are they good collateral for 90 days, in my opinion, but as long as may be necessary for purposes of orderly and gradual marketing."

MAMMOTH CAVE

New Entrance Found by Company Drilling for "Onyx"

Underground rivalry for exhibiting America's greatest hole in the ground is a future possibility says a Glasgow special.

Monday after a year of secret preparation, Morrison Cave really a new entrance giving access to 50 miles of Mammoth Cave was opened to the public.

For more than a year workmen of the Morrison Development Company have been drilling three miles from the cave. They were seeking an onyx vein everyone understood.

But the drilling ceased; workmen carried away their tools. It was with surprise the country-side learned that tourists, and not onyx was the treasure sought. The "mine" had suddenly become fifty miles long.

Promoters of the new cave project claim to hold leases on a lengthy portion of the cavern, including Cathedral Dome, shown, but alleged, not owned by the Mammoth Cave survey will be closed until their holdings are fully proved.

The new entrance is 300 yards from the Cave City Mammoth Cave road. The company plans a half million dollar hotel and other conveniences. The underground holdings have already been provided with electric lights and many walkways.

BLIND GIRL

Tells Colors by Smell, Reads Newspapers With Fingers

Blue is Willet Huggins' favorite color, although it does not have as pleasant a smell as some other colors. It smells like ink. But Miss Huggins who is 17, deaf and sightless and a pupil of the Wisconsin School for the Blind, says she doesn't mind the way blue smells—it's a pretty color.

All colors smell differently, Miss Huggins explained, after giving a remarkable demonstration before the Chicago Medical Society.

"Green smells like glass," she explained, although she didn't say just what glass smells like; "blue smells like ink; pink like wool; black smells like a newspaper and white really has no smell."

The girl was able to read newspaper headlines by passing her fingers over the page, an odd distinction figures in newspaper pictures by smelling the amount of ink on different positions of the picture. She "saw" one picture with four women, and picked out a woman with gray hair accurately.

She demonstrated that she could hear a lecture or an orchestra concert by holding a sheet of paper in the air and she can hear over the telephone by putting her fingers over the receiver. She can tell the denomination of a bank note by feeling the number. Willetta, well proportioned and attractive, has bobbed her hair.

Southern Potatoes

USING MORE CERTIFIED SEED

In some Southern States where potatoes are an important crop, growers are taking an increasing interest in certified seed, but according to State officials and representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, who are co-operating with them, special legislation is necessary to prevent local seedmen from selling ordinary seed stock or even table stock as certified seed.

Many growers now recognize the value of superior seed and are willing to pay a premium for it, but they are discouraged by frauds perpetrated upon them by unscrupulous dealers. However, the farmers may protect themselves to a great extent if they will look for the certification tag which should be on every sack of certified seed potatoes. With this tag to start from it is possible to trace any lot of seed back to the grower or dealer who put it up.

Not only the growers, but many of the seed dealers have been impressed with the importance of getting in nothing but the best seed. This year 22 carloads of certified seed potatoes, all of the Triumph variety, were planted in Louisiana alone. Twelve carloads came from Wisconsin and 10 from western Nebraska. It is claimed that by the use of this high-grade seed the yields in that State are being increased 40 bushels or more an acre over that of much of the seed formerly sold there.

Virginia Banks

AID FARMERS TO PURCHASE
PURE-BRED SIRE

The banks of Charlottesville, Va., are co-operating with farmers of the surrounding county in obtaining pure-bred sires. According to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture, if a farmer will sell his grade or scrub sires and purchase pure-bred animals, the banks supply the necessary funds to cover the purchase of the pure-bred sire over the amount received for the inferior animal. The loan is made on the basis of a year's time.

Sentiment among bankers regarding the use of pure-bred live stock in practical farming operations appears to be growing more favorable, and the attitude of the Charlottesville banks is evidence of this point. Pure-bred sires of good quality, as shown by information obtained by the Bureau of Animal Industry, increase the earning power of herds and flocks in which they are used.

Hail Destroys
Millions of Dollars of Tobacco

The loss of tobacco by hail in this and other tobacco states within the last five years has run up into millions of dollars with only a small part covered by insurance.

Yet, the amount of insurance received by growers who had the foresight thus to protect themselves against such loss, was enormous and should make every grower not only feel the necessity of insuring his tobacco crop against hail storms loss but to do that very thing and do it at once.

What Dr. Halley Says: Dr. Samuel H. Halley, of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, upon congratulating an insurance company on lowering its rates on tobacco hail insurance, said, "Within the period that I have had hail insurance I have had four severe losses. The money I received exceeded considerably what I paid in, to say nothing of my peace of mind that I was fully protected in case of a storm. I have always advocated carrying hail insurance on tobacco without which every grower takes a chance to lose all. With it he can, in safety, go into the business of producing a crop which requires, as does tobacco, so much labor, time and money."

Now that the Burley Growers have gone into an organization to handle their business in a modern economic business-like way, I see no reason why all growers can not take out insurance on the reduced rates the companies are now quoting. Look up the insurance agent in your section now, and let him protect you against the loss of your tobacco. Policies effective July 10th, noon.

Farm and Home News From Over Kentucky

With the organization of four junior agricultural clubs in one week in Nelson county, interest in this line of activity continues to increase among farm boys and girls in that district, County Agent C. L. Hill says. The county will have ten organized clubs with local community leaders this year.

Nineteen Daviess county farmers who are co-operating with the College of Agriculture extension division in keeping cost accounts in their farm business are getting much satisfaction from their records, it is reported. Each of the record keepers took an inventory of his farm equipment early in the year and will continue the record keeping for at least one year in order to determine the value of putting their farm operations on a business basis.

Acid phosphate has received increased consideration from Fleming county farmers this year in their soil building work, County Agent H. F. McKenney says. One community alone used 44 carloads.

Eighty-four per cent of the orchard grass growers of Oldham county have joined the recently organized Orchard Grass Seed Growers' Co-operative Association, County Agent Gordon B. Nance reports.

Breckenridge county farmers are uniting in a movement to eradicate scrub sires in all classes of live stock found in that district, it is reported. Plans for a swine breeders' association for the purpose of stimulating interest in pure bred hogs, which the farmers will organize with the help of County Agent R. M. Greene, mark the latest development in the movement.

Seasonal Tips

For Gardeners

In Kentucky the second planting of lima beans, string beans, late carrots, sweet corn and tomatoes should be made by June 1st.

Regardless of weather tomatoes are staked or unstaked, it is a good plan to go over them about every ten days and remove suckers. This conserves the strength of the plant for fruit production. The suckers may be removed satisfactorily by using the thumb and forefinger or a sharp knife.

When tomatoes are sprayed for insects and diseases, care should be taken not to spray them while they are in bloom as this decreases the amount of fruit which the plants produce.

About June 1st, is the time to make the second planting of water-melons in Kentucky. Tom Watson is an especially good variety for planting at that time.

Equal parts of air-slaked lime and tomato dust mixed together and sprinkled around cucumber, melon and squash plants acts as a repellent to the striped cucumber beetle which already is reported to be giving some trouble, gardeners at the College of Agriculture say. Tobacco dust may be obtained by grinding tobacco stems.

Weather Bureau

To Furnish Lecture Course to Airmen

The Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture, upon request by the United States Air Service, has begun a course of lectures on meteorology to pilots at certain aviation fields in California. Such a course it was felt should be adaptable to the region in which pilots do most of their flying. The lectures would be necessarily few in number, brief, well illustrated with lantern slides, and mainly devoted to those phases of general meteorology which are of most concern in actual flying.

An outline meeting with these requirements is being followed, supplemented with suitable lantern slides. It covers, in 10 lectures, general meteorology, instruments and methods of observation at the surface and in the upper levels, physical properties of the atmosphere, including its constituents, its vertical structure, the decrease of pressure with altitude, the change of temperature with altitude, and the change of humidity with altitude. The direction and velocity of winds is to be studied, thunderstorms, fogs and clouds, cyclones and anticyclones, forecasting, and features of meteorology especially relating to aviation, stressing the importance of knowing winds and weather along a flying route before a flight is begun. The course of lectures will end with a discussion of weather conditions and climate in California, in the region in which the flying is to be done, and their relation to aviation.

There's a lot of enjoyment on the farm for the fellow who doesn't have to work it.

Fighting Cattle T. B.

IS SUCCESSFUL BY AREA PLAN

In addition to systematic eradication of cattle tuberculosis by the accredited-herd plan, interest in the "area plan," as it is called, has lately developed in many States, according to the report issued by the United States Department of Agriculture describing progress during March. The eradication of tuberculosis under the comprehensive plan generally includes a county as a unit and all the cattle in the county are tested. The report shows that in States where the eradication work was concentrated in certain localities in an effort to wipe out the disease entirely, a great many more animals were tested than in States where the area plan is not yet followed to any appreciable extent.

In the one month, Nebraska, working on the area plan, tested 21,000 cattle. A number of other States made high records as a result of the concentration of effort in a few counties. During March, Michigan tested 19,817 head; New York, 13,076; Missouri, 12,799; Indiana, 11,933; Wisconsin, 11,778; Iowa, 11,250; and Tennessee, 8,455. The total number tested in all the States during the month was 228,779.

The area plan of testing is a valuable supplement to accredited-herd work which has resulted in the eradication of many thousand head of tuberculous cattle and the establishment of more than 13,000 herds accredited as free from disease.

There are now more than 305,000 accredited cattle in the country; over 1,250,000 tested once and found free of tuberculosis; more than 2,133,000 under supervision; and about 408,000 on the waiting list. Wisconsin leads in number of accredited cattle with 36,183 and Minnesota follows with 33,759. However, the rate at which the work is going on in some other States, these two will have to keep very busy to stay at the top.

Little Miss Emory

By MYRA C. LANE

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union

"Did you see that in the paper?" asked Sutphen, the oldest boarder, pointing to a paragraph. "You wouldn't remember Tim McCarthy, but I remember him well. Thirty years he's served—dear, dear!" He clucked his tongue against the roof of his mouth. "Thirty years, Miss Emory. Big slice out of a man's life, isn't it?"

"What did he do?" asked little, faded Miss Emory, the school teacher.

"Why, this McCarthy was the most notorious desperado in the West, but it was in Trenton they got him. He'd gone home because his mother was dying. Queer streak in a fellow like that. And that's how the police got their hands on him."

"Odd thing, but there was quite a public reaction in his favor. For one thing, he'd never taken a life. And, for another, there was a girl believed in him. Appears she'd stuck to him through thick and thin, and swore she'd wait for him. But I guess that sort of hero ain't much in your line, Miss Emory!"

He smiled at the precise little middle-aged lady as he put the newspaper down.

"Well, I guess the pardon board did the right thing," said Harris. "McCarthy won't go on the rampage again."

"I guess not," answered Sutphen. "He'd be quite lost among modern inventions. Gosh, I bet he's never seen a skyscraper, nor used the telephone, nor ridden in an autocar. Oh, I guess his desperado days are over."

"I saw in the paper he'd said he was going to take up farming," said Miss Emory placidly.

"Farming, huh? Well, I guess that ain't changed much," said Sutphen. "Mighty queer sort of neighbor to have, though. I should say! I didn't see anything about that girl, though. If there's a girl willing to wait thirty years until her sweetheart comes out of the pen, lead me to her!"

Miss Emory smiled; so did Harris. Nobody wasted much sympathy on McCarthy. After all, he had got what he deserved, and he was mighty fortunate to see a bit of freedom before he died.

McCarthy stepped out of his cell for the last time and strode beside the guard to the warden's office. The warden met him at the door and grasped his hand cordially.

"Glad you're going, old man," he said. "Be good to yourself. No need to hand you the parting guff, eh, Tim?"

Tim smiled. He still stood straight as an arrow, despite his lined face and close-cropped, iron-gray hair. "I guess the goin's all right for me," he said. He glanced inquiringly at the office, and the warden nodded.

"It's all fixed, license and all," he said, "and the mayor's private car's at the door. He said that was the least you could do. All you've got to do is to hop in, and you'll be on your own homestead inside of four hours."

McCarthy nodded back, and stepped inside the office. A woman of about his own age was waiting there. She was clothed in a soft fawn gray, which showed up her clear skin, delicate features and graying hair. Tim clasped her in his arms and she laid her head upon his shoulder.

"It doesn't seem real, Tim," she sobbed.

"Cheer up, sweetheart," whispered Tim in her ear. "We need every ounce of our courage."

She looked at him in alarm.

"Wh-what for, Tim?" she stammered.

"To talk the photographers," grinned Tim.

He had spoken truly, for Tim's release had fired the city's imagination, and their appearance at the gate of the penitentiary was the signal for the snapping of innumerable cameras. When at length the car rolled away, mobs packed the streets. The entrance to the license room was guarded by policemen, but Tim had to clear a passage for himself and his bride by sheer force.

Nevertheless, it was a happy, smiling pair that finally emerged, again to run the gamut of the photographers. And now the journey toward the city limits became a sort of triumphal progress, and thousands lined the streets, cheering vociferously, so that their car could hardly force its passage.

Harris, who often lunched with Sutphen, was waiting for him at the corner of Main and Elm, when the auto came laboriously along. Sutphen appeared.

"Sorry to be so late," he panted. "This d—n mob's the worst I seen since Hardin's election." Suddenly he grasped Harris by the arm. "Snakes!" he ejaculated. "Am I seeing 'em again, or—who's that beside Tim McCarthy?"

Harris' eyes were popping out of their orbits. "By all that's holy!" he gasped. "Miss Emory!"

New Type of Snow Plow.

A new apparatus for clearing snow from railroad tracks has been devised by Louis P. Chloine of Vandread, Quebec, Canada. The apparatus has the general V-shape of a snow plow, but instead of consisting of a plain V-shaped plow it has a series of cutters detachably mounted on the front portion of the plow. These cutters each have a rectangular shank, the lower end of which extends forward to locate the cutting point in advance of the plane of the shank and rearwardly to re-enforce the point which has a knife edge. This enables the device to cut through the ice and crusted snow efficiently. The device has been adopted as a standard one on one of the large Canadian rail ways.

Some people live well on little money

THEY know how to buy food, how to cook it and how to keep it so that flavor and nourishment are fully retained. That's the whole secret.

No well-informed housewife, for instance, would be without ice in early Spring. The weather is too changeable; the temperature is too warm. The food might not spoil so badly that it could not be used; but it would lose the appetizing flavor which makes eating a pleasure and it would have less of the nourishing quality which your children especially need.

From now on, ice should be taken regularly. It actually saves money.

Radio Weather Reports

TO BE ISSUED ON GREAT LAKES

Following the establishment of the Pacific coast radio weather reporting program by the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture in March, this service has been extended since April 15th, for the benefit of shipping and aviation on the Great Lakes. This completes the service to all shipping interests in waters about the United States—in the Atlantic, Gulf of Mexico, Pacific, or Great Lakes. heretofore this type of service was only in operation along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and in the Caribbean Sea.

In a circular available to those interested this new service is described in detail. Twice daily, at noon and 11:30 P. M., seventy-fifth meridian time, between April 15th and December 20th, the Great Lakes Naval Radio Station will broadcast on 1,988 meters wave length a message giving surface weather conditions as observed at 8 A. M. or 8 P. M., and aerological observations taken in the morning or afternoon of the date of distribution; the message will include also a synopsis of general conditions, wind and weather forecasts for the upper and lower Lakes, storm warnings for the Lakes, and flying weather forecasts for aviation zones extending between western New York, northern Ohio, and Indiana and western Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas. Local bulletins will be distributed at various times during the day from the naval radio stations at Alpena, Mich.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Cleveland, Ohio; and Duluth, Minn. Ships may call upon any of these stations for weather reports, warnings, or forecasts. Copies of an appropriate base map for the plotting of weather data may be obtained free by vessel masters from any Weather Bureau station on the Great Lakes.

PUREBRED FEMALES GAINING

Striking Development in Federal-State Campaign for Live Stock Improvement.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Noteworthy progress during the last three months in the federal-state campaign for live-stock improvement is reported by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. The most striking development is the increasing tendency for purebred-sire users to acquire purebred female stock as well. In the period of January 1 to March 31 of this year, 970 persons filed with the department signed enrollment blanks, indorsed by county agents, showing the use of purebred sires exclusively for all classes of live stock kept. This number is an increase of 254 over the previous three months and is nearly three times as many as for the same period in 1921.

Although the department has stressed chiefly the use of purebred sires, records of the "Better Sires, Better Stock" campaign show a gradual rise in the proportion of purebred female animals, including cattle, horses, swine, sheep, goats and poultry. The proportion of purebreds to the total of female animals kept now exceeds 35 per cent. A decline in the proportion of scrub females in herds headed by purebred sires accompanied the rise in purebreds.

The greatest activity during the quarter was in Ohio where 532 persons were enrolled—more than half of the total. Nebraska came second with 135 enrollments, Washington third with 126 and Kentucky fourth with 124. A new state, Michigan, entered the campaign actively. Virginia has been the premier state since the beginning of the campaign from the standpoint of persons participating. Nebraska occupies first place in number of animals being bred to purebred sires. Ohio, which at the beginning of the year occupied third place, is now second and is fast approaching the leader. The returns from Green county, ty, Ohio, show a unique result. There were 130 persons enrolled. The live stock owned totaled 17,229 and among these there was but one scrub, a sow. There was an abundance, however, of grades and crossbreeds, indicating widespread use of purebred sires in the county. Among the ten counties in the United States highest in number of purebred-sire enrollments four are in Ohio. One of them, Hardin county, is second only to Pulaski county, Virginia.

The most active counties during the three months' period were Hancock and Green counties, Ohio, Kittitas county, Washington, Oldham county, Kentucky, Dodge county, Nebraska, and Hardin county, Ohio. Comments received by the department from live-stock users show an increasing appreciation of the value of purebreds. Numerous disposals of grade sires to be replaced by purebreds are reported.

GOOD TREATMENT PAYS BEST

Most Profitable Beef Animal Is One That Has Capacity to Eat and Produce Meat.

W. H. Peters, professor of animal husbandry at University farm, emphasizes the fact that the most profitable beef animal is the one that has the capacity to eat and manufacture into beef the greatest amount of feed, and not the one that can subsist on the least and poorest ration.

"There are thousands of two and three-year-old beef cattle that can eat plenty of feed," he says, "but many of them are not able to manufacture much beef out of it, largely because their growth was stunted, their vitality weakened, and their beefy conformation lost through lack of proper and sufficient feed when they were calves."

"Present high prices for cattle and feed," says Mr. Peters, "make it more clear than ever before that there are two ways of securing a profit from beef cattle: through the production of a good, well-grown beefy type of animal, and by keeping down the cost of production to the minimum consistent with full development."

Vindicates the Turkey.

Charges of larceny commonly preferred against turkeys that range in grain fields may be definitely withdrawn following significant evidence that the homely birds choose one fat cricket to a whole field of grain during the season that they fit themselves for the Thanksgiving sacrifice. A count made last fall of the contents of a typical tom's crop showed 240 grasshoppers, 50 black crickets and nine kernels of grain. Turkeydom rests its case on many similar evidences in other states.

Early Learned Truth About Earth.

Eratosthenes was a Greek mathematician living in Egypt. He wrote a book on geography, and had so clear a perception of the shape of the earth that more than 1,700 years before Columbus he affirmed that it would be possible to sail from Spain to India by going always westward. He needed no telescope and no chronometer to find that out. Eratosthenes measured the circumference of the earth on precisely the principle that still lies at the basis of geodesy.

FEEDERS AVOID HEAVY LOSS

Cattle Cost Studies in Corn Belt Show Losses Are Small When Roughages Are Used.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Cost figures on 20,217 head of beef cattle fed in five corn belt states, summarized in a statement issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, show that scattering droves made good profits last season, in spite of the fact that there was an average loss of $20.87 per steer. Department investigators cite the fact that some of these droves made profits under the most adverse conditions, as emphasizing the extreme importance of watching the details of feeding and management in slump periods in the cattle business.

The feeders in the areas studied who made the most economic gains, in general, used standard rations. In Illinois and Indiana this ration consisted of corn, protein meal, mixed clover and timothy hay, and silage, with some stover and fodder. In Nebraska and Iowa the standard rations consisted of corn and alfalfa hay, while in Missouri it consisted of corn, protein meal, hay and fodder. In the latter state some of the cattle covered in the study were finished on grass.

"The average loss of $20.87 per head," one of the department investigators explains, "should be looked at in the light of the fact that all feeds were charged to the cattle at farm prices for all home grown feeds, and store prices for feeds bought." Thus the effect of the loss in question on the farm business as a whole was in some measure offset by the return from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds of unmarketable roughage fed to the average steer in the different localities. Even though the cattle-feeding enterprise may show a presumptive loss, there may be a profit for the farm operation as a whole, provided home-grown feeds have been produced at a cost far enough below the market price.

"No individual feeder could be sure of marketing his field products at a profit, including stover and low-grade hay, if he were to choose to sell crops rather than feed them to live stock. If all feeders, or even if a considerable number of feeders, were to try such a shift, the market for all field products would be glutted, with the probable result that the farmers could not even dispose of their corn. The cattle feeder, though he knows that his business for the time being is a precarious one, hesitates to turn to crop farming as a possible relief, because he realizes that cattle feeding is the business he is best fitted for, and because he believes a recovery to profitable production is not far distant."

The studies in question were made by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges of Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri. Preliminary reports issued by the department, and by the several state institutions concerned, give in detail the quantities of feed and hours of labor used in ordinary feed lot production of fat cattle.

All reports may be obtained upon request to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., or single reports from the state agricultural colleges co-operating. Farmers' Bulletin 1218, "Beef Production in the Corn Belt," gives a discussion of feeding.

ESSENTIAL TO CONTROL LICE

Plenty of Nutritious Feed and Thorough Cleaning Up of Surroundings Are Needed.

In the control of cattle lice, plenty of nutritious food and a thorough cleaning up of the animals and their surroundings are essential to success, whatever method of control you choose to adopt.

Feeding Calves. Calves intended for beef should begin on grain when three to four months old. A mixture of equal parts oats, bran and corn (preferably ground) is the best grain ration.

Pay Attention to Worms. Successful growers of swine are each year paying more attention to the prevention of worms in swine.

Dock Early. Lambs should be docked and gelded while yet quite small.

Imaginary Savings

IT IS THE IMAGINARY SAVINGS THAT PEOPLE MAKE ON PURCHASES THAT CAUSE THEM TO BE POOR OF PURSE.

It is also the same glittering inducement that causes some of our otherwise loyal Lancaster citizens to go trailing off to outside places to spend their money for purchases THAT COULD BE MADE JUST AS ADVANTAGEOUSLY HERE AT HOME.

We think we understand the fascination offered by supposedly greener fields of other merchandising centers. In fact it is the same magnet that invites a person to explore the pages of a Mail Order catalogue and charms them into sending their money away to A BUSINESS FIRM HUNDREDS OF MILES DISTANT.

IT IS THE MAGNET OF IMAGINATION. An imagination that there is a selection and a quality and a price that cannot be obtained at home. And this idea is a mistaken one.

PROSPERITY IS NOT COMING TO THE COMMUNITY THAT HAS LOST FAITH IN ITS BUSINESS INTERESTS. Sending or spending money away from Lancaster isn't doing Lancaster any good and profits accordingly the community in which it is spent.

And while we are speaking of PROSPERITY let us all put our shoulders to the wheel and make Good Times always possible by indulging in normal business transactions; buying what you need when you need it; discrediting commercial pessimism and, as far as possible, SPENDING OUR DOLLARS WITHIN OURSELVES.

This is real civic boosting; real co-operative community effort and real profit for all our citizens—RESULTS THAT DO NOT REQUIRE THE IMAGINATION TO SEE AND APPRECIATE.

It is up to we Lancaster people to bring success to our city. The path is plainly marked and the guiding sign reads:

"TRADE AT HOME."

IMPORTANT WORM DISCOVERY

Zoologists Find That Carbon Tetrachloride Is Effective in Destroying Parasites.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The toll exacted from the livestock industry by internal parasites and worms is enormous, and because of this drain on the herds and flocks the zoologists of the United States Department of Agriculture have been at an unflagging search for chemical and treatments that may be used to combat these organisms. Recently they have discovered that carbon tetrachloride, once used in medicine as an anesthetic and now used variously as a fire extinguisher, cloth cleaner, insecticide, and solvent for fats and gums, is very effective as a destroyer and expeller of intestinal worms. The name of this chemical is carbon tetrachloride.

The effectiveness of this chemical against certain round worms has been announced by the department, but what may be the most beneficial use has just been brought out by tests on animals infested with hookworms. In the case of sheep the minimum effective dose has not yet been determined, but all the doses used, from 12 cubic centimeters to 48, in each case given in two ounces of castor oil, removed all stomach worms and all hookworms. It has been equally effective for hookworms in dogs and foxes, and has been used with success against some of the various kinds of worms that infest the digestive tract of pigs.

The fact that a species of hookworm also affects man makes this discovery of the efficacy of this chemical against hookworms in various animals of interest to medical men as well as to veterinarians and livestock growers. Medical men are now trying it out at several places as a possible cure for hookworm disease in man, and it gives promise of success. As a result of the work so far completed, scientists in the bureau of animal industry consider that this drug will prove of special value in the removal of the various kinds of blood-sucking worms in domestic animals.

FEED FOR FATTENING STEERS

Corn and Corn Silage With Cottonseed Meal and Alfalfa Favored at Iowa College.

That corn and corn silage, supplemented with cottonseed meal, alfalfa hay and salt make the best ration for fattening steers was shown to Iowa farmers recently. Steers fed this ration made substantial gains in experiments at Iowa State college and although they were ordinary steers they made $13 per head. This indicates that the feeding business, properly handled and where good-quality steers are started with, will pay the farmer a profit.

Other roughages, such as clover hay, corn stover and mixed timothy and clover hays were experimented with. The red clover ration made a good showing but the other roughages lost money.

Cottonseed meal was used to an advantage in these experiments and made a fine balancer for the ration. In speaking of the use of this protein feed for steers the animal husbandry men say that during the last 12 years it has been used in experiments at the rate of three pounds to 1,000 pounds of steer. It was fed for a period of one to six months with corn silage and good results were obtained.

Cottonseed meal, however, as a hog feed has caused some doubt as to its value due to toxic qualities but the Iowa station has found that when fed in rations where cottonseed meal is used at the rate of one part to four parts of ration no harm has resulted.

OBSTACLE IN RAISING SWINE

Round Worm Is One of Greatest Cause of Loss—Many Remedies, but Prevention Is Best.

One of the greatest obstacles encountered in hog production is the parasites which are found where hogs have been raised for a number of years. Probably the round worm is the one which is most numerous and causes the most losses. There are many worm remedies but the best cure is prevention.

Quite the Reverse. "A man isn't so apt to fib about his age as a woman, but he even up the score when telling about his salary," remarks an exchange. True, but he rarely understates his salary as a woman does her age.—Boston Transcript.

Perhaps He Knew What He Meant. The persistent pender of stupid comments on the margins of the periodicals at the public library occasionally makes us smile in spite of ourselves. Opposite an article in a recent Spectator about the Irish boundary he wrote, "There can be no Irish boundary. Ireland one and indivisible."—Boston Transcript.

Forever Lost. A man who was attending a vaudeville show in Denver recently laughed so hard at one of the jokes that he became hysterical, fainted and had to be carried out of the theater. Unfortunately he was unable, when he recovered his reason, to remember what the joke was.

First Wire Suspension Bridge. The first wire suspension bridge in the world, built in 1816, was across the Schuylkill river in Philadelphia. Supported by cables of six three-eighth-inch wires, it had a span of 408 feet and was 18 inches wide. Not more than eight people were permitted to walk on it at one time.

Word's Odd Derivation. The word "sincere" owes its origin to honey. The ancient Romans used honey in great quantities, and as much of it was adulterated with wax, he was accounted an honest man who sold his honey pure. In this way the word "sincere" passed into our language, for it signified "sine cera," meaning without wax.

One Among Many. The throwing of rice at weddings is denounced as a dangerous custom. But surely one additional danger at a wedding is hardly worth considering.—London Opinion.

Coquette's Explanation. A young man recently asked one of the opposite sex why girls so frequently became engaged to several fellows at once. "A smoker like you shouldn't have to ask that," she replied with a laugh. "When you have only one match, doesn't it generally go out?"—Boston Transcript.

Aster Hardy Perennial. The aster is one of the hardiest perennials, and is spread throughout the world. Most of the numerous varieties belong to North America and are found in abundance in the fields. They bloom mostly from the middle of July until the first frost and are a prominent feature of most flower stores. Asters may be sown as early as the middle of March.

Oyster Enlarges Home. An oyster enlarges its own shell. It spends its infancy in the hole where it lives in its latter days. As it grows it throws out a secretion of animal matter and carbonate of lime, which sticks to the shell, and sozes over the edges surrounding the hollow in which the creature resides. Thus, as time goes on, its home gradually becomes larger and thicker.

Japanese Interpret Films. In all motion picture theaters in Japan there is always a speaker who dramatically explains each picture, because the English words shown on the screen are unintelligible to the audience.

What It Was! "Look here! I used that goo you coaxed me to take instead of the stuff that I had seen advertised, and now look at my hair! Worst kink I ever saw—ought to be called a 'crime wave!'"—Retail Ledger, Philadelphia.

Whale Can't Breathe Under Water. The whale who, because he lives in the water, is often supposed to be a member of the fish family, is in reality no more one than is a human being. He is in reality an animal very much like a cow or a horse, and his flesh is real animal flesh, nothing whatever like that of a fish. And like all other mammals, he cannot remain under water without an occasional trip to the surface.

Mixed Characteristics. At a political gathering in England an orator waxing indignant said, "To ridicule the idea of this country being invaded is to follow the example of the camel, which buries its head in the sand when an enemy approaches." The rival speaker rose and retorted, "Surely the gentleman in giving utterance to this apothegm, must have meant to refer to the ostrich which, in those circumstances, has a habit of putting its eye through a needle."—Boston Transcript.

Port of Entry, Port of Call, Etc. "Port of entry" is a term from revenue law, meaning a district or designated locality, whether a nautical port or not, where foreign goods may be introduced for import. The "port of debarkation" is the landing place where a ship discharges part or all of her cargo. The "port of call" is a port where vessels customarily stop for coal, repairs, transshipment of cargo, etc.

Culling Standard and Mixed Breeds of Poultry Compared

In Knox county, Ind., half the number of hens culled under the supervision of the county agent, employed cooperatively by the United States Department of Agriculture, the State Agricultural College and the county, were standard bred and the other half mixed breeds, so their comparative merits could be considered through culling.

The 9 standard bred flocks numbered 1,087, while the 9 of mixed flocks numbered 1,103, or 16 more hens. The week before culling, the standard bred hens laid 2,906 eggs and the mixed breeds 2,547, or 352 less. In culling, 314 standard bred and 355 mongrel hens were removed from the flocks, leaving 773 standard bred and 738 mongrels, or 35 more standard breeds. Two owners of the standard bred flocks, being breeders, culled much closer than the owners of the mixed flocks. The week after culling the standard bred hens laid 2,724 and the mongrels 2,433 eggs.

The figures show that among the 1,087 standard bred hens there were 41 less culls than among the 1,103 of the mixed flocks, and that they laid 359 more eggs the week before culling and 291 more the week after.

PREVENT LOSS IN SHIPPING

Partitions in Stock Cars Separating Large Animals From Small Ones Is Good Idea.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A little time and labor, possibly a little money, expended in building a strong partition to separate the big animals from the small ones in a mixed carload of live stock frequently saves the shipper from a serious loss on the consignment, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture. The smaller animals, such as hogs, lambs, goats and sheep are always in danger of injury from the larger animals, and this is especially true when the car is overcrowded.

Crippled animals mean a loss to the shipper, for they bring prices considerably below the regular market price for sound stock. Dead animals bring still less—in the case of hogs only about 50 to 75 cents per hundred pounds for grease. There is always the danger, too, of the small stock becoming bruised, through being jostled and kicked by the larger ones. Bruises make a carcass less valuable, as the meat inspectors in the slaughterhouses cut out all bruised spots. Meat thus mutilated is sold at cheaper grades, the depreciation depending upon how much cutting was necessary. The buyers in the stock yards know this, of course, and, consequently, pay less for animals that show bruises or seem likely to have suffered in this way.

Buyers are afraid of bruised stock, and for this reason are suspicious of small animals arriving at the stock yards in a mixed carload where the larger animals are not partitioned off. Such injuries are difficult to detect in the live animal, but when small stock, such as calves and lambs, arrive in a badly soiled condition buyers usually suspect they have been trampled and bruised by larger animals, and as a rule the buyers play safe by paying less money for such stock.

MORE BROOD SOWS ON FARMS

Increase of 1,237,000 Over Year Ago Is Seen, Due Largely to Big Stock of Corn.

There were 12,424,000 breeding sows on farms April 1, the United States Department of Agriculture estimates. This is 1,237,000 animals more than on the same date in 1921 and represents an increase of 11.1 per cent.

The large corn crop last year and the unusually large farm stocks of corn are given as the explanation of the large increase in breeding sows this spring. Corn was worth more as pork than as corn, and hogs were needed to eat the corn.

The number of hogs is quickly responsive to the general economic situation, the department points out. In April 1918, the number of breeding sows was 9.5 per cent more than on the same date in 1917, due to high hog prices as a result of war conditions. The figures on April, 1920, show a decline of 10 per cent for the year ended on that date. The reason for this was that the price of corn was relatively too high to encourage the feeding of hogs.

FINE FORAGE CROPS FOR PIGS

Rape Is Rich in Protein, While Alfalfa Will Carry More Animals Per Acre.

Rape is rich in protein, and is almost equal to alfalfa as a forage crop for pigs. The chief advantage to alfalfa lies in the fact that it will generally carry more pigs per acre, and does not need to be reseeded each year.

Make Land Pay More.

Purebred live stock on every farm would go far toward making high-priced land pay 6 per cent net on its value.

Have Purebred Females Too.

Of course the purebred sire is the first step, but there's no good argument against purebred females in live-stock improvement.

Roosters

Given Blame For Summer Egg Losses

Roosters allowed to run with poultry flocks during warm weather cause Kentucky poultrymen and farmers a loss of almost one million dollars each year in the form of fertile eggs that spoil on their way to the consumer, poultrymen at the College of Agriculture say. The production of infertile eggs and the prevention of a large part of this loss requires that owners of laying hens sell, kill or confine all roosters as soon as the hatching season is over, they say. Hens without a rooster lay just as many eggs as those allowed to run with a rooster, it was pointed out.

"A fertile egg may become unfit for food in 24 hours of warm weather," J. H. Martin, in charge of the College poultry work, said. "An egg does not need to be incubated in order to spoil because warm weather will cause development of the germ. On the other hand, an infertile egg may be kept in an incubator at 103 degrees for seven days and still be good for cooking."

"Experiments have shown that it does not pay to hatch chicks after the first of June," he continued. "This being the case, there is no reason for keeping roosters with the flock during the warm weather, since the hens will lay just as well without them."

"Old roosters should be sold or killed in June and the young roosters disposed of just as soon as they have reached frying size. Any cockerels kept for breeders should be confined. This not only will prevent the production of fertile eggs but also will enable the cockerels to grow more rapidly and to a greater size than would be the case if they were allowed to run with hens."

Garden Tomatoes Can Be Staked Profitably

Tomato growers, including farmers, commercial growers and back yard gardeners, again are considering the question of whether or not to stake their tomatoes or cultivate them and allow them to fall on the ground, inquiries being received at the College of Agriculture show. Staking is out of the question for commercial growers but can be used to advantage in the average garden, specialists on the crop at the college say. Staked plants are easier to keep free of diseases, they yield more an acre and produce a more perfect fruit than unstaked ones.

"The cost of stakes, the additional labor involved and the greater number of plants required are the limiting factors for profitable staking of tomatoes when the crop is grown for the canning factory," N. R. Elliott said. "In this case, the ground should be cultivated thoroughly and then a mulch of hay, straw or some similar substance placed on the ground so that the fruit will be kept out of the dirt. Placing this material on the ground also helps to conserve moisture."

"For the average garden, it may be best to stake the plants. They are set about three by five or four by six feet apart and trained to a single stem. Stakes similar to a tobacco stick are driven beside each plant when these are set. By training to a single stem and pruning off all other stems and removing suckers that grow out of the axils of the leaves, it is possible to raise fruit of better quality than is produced when the plants are allowed to run on the ground.

"If the plants are set in the ground at least five inches deep and staked they should produce fruit until frost. Cultivation may be continued throughout the growing season when staking is practiced. When staked, the plants are tied every six to 12 inches, care being taken to see that they are not tied too tightly so as not to injure the fruit."

5,000 VETERANS AT RICHMOND REUNION

Richmond, Va., May 29.—(Special)—Richmond is completing preparations to entertain the 32d annual convention of the United Confederate Veterans, on June 19, 20, 21 and 22. Fully 5,000 of the surviving 45,000 Confederates are expected to be within the city's hospitable gates. Most of them will be accompanied by one or more members of their families, and, in addition, there will be present members of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, sponsors and maids and matrons of honor.

Comfortable Quarters.

Because of their age, the veterans this year will sleep in comfortable quarters. Thousands of them will stop at hotels and with relatives and friends, while others will be accommodated at reasonable cost, from $1.25 to $2 per day for lodging and breakfast, in private homes. Applications for quarters and inquiries concerning them should be addressed to Major B. B. Morgan, chairman of the Committee on Information and Quarters, Postoffice Box No. 685, Richmond. Dinner and supper, with the compliments of the City of Richmond and the Commonwealth of Virginia, will be supplied Confederate veterans who desire them on June 20, 21 and 22.

Reduced Railroad Fares.

The Southern Railway, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway and, in fact, practically all the transportation systems in the South have agreed to give the veterans, accompanying members of their families, and members of auxiliary organizations the benefit of reduced fares to this city and return. These rates have been fixed as follows:

Veterans and accompanying members of their families, 1 cent a mile for each mile traveled.

Members of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, other auxiliary organizations, sponsors and maids and matrons of honor, one-way fare for the round trip.

Identification Certificates.

Tickets will be placed on sale through the South in ample time for visitors to reach Richmond on or before June 19. As customary and in order to eliminate trouble in procuring tickets at the reduced rates of fare, identification certificates have been prepared and are being distributed to all veterans and members of Confederate and affiliated bodies. Individuals who are unable to procure them through usual channels should apply at once to Adjutant-in-Chief Carl Hinton, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Hotel Richmond, Richmond.

Plump Wives Preferred.

The Moors, like the Turks and other orientals, have a preference for plump wives, and throughout the empire of Morocco and in Tunis there are villages where the elder members of the adult population make a profession of fattening young women for the matrimonial market of Barbary.

Flea Beetles Begin

Annual Destruction

Flea beetles have opened their annual attack on potatoes, tomatoes, eggplant and other garden plants in Kentucky, according to a report made by J. S. Gardner, vegetable gardening specialist of the College of Agriculture upon his return from a tour of a number of counties in the State. The insects are particularly abundant in the southwestern part of the State, he said.

The beetle doing the most damage is known as the black flea beetle, its body being entirely black and covered with hairs. The adult measures about one-twelfth of an inch long. Injury caused by the beetles is characterized by small holes eaten in the leaves, the damage to potatoes sometimes resembling that caused by blight. The entire leaf unusually dies while the damage in some cases is so severe that the whole plants are destroyed and yields of the particular crop reduced. Gnawing of the insects usually are accompanied by a deadening of the leaves about the holes, giving the plants a rusty appearance not always recognized as the particular work of the pest.

Spraying with Bordeaux mixture has been recommended as a control. This not only reduces the amount of damage done by the beetles but also makes it possible for the plants to go through a drouth in better shape, Mr. Gardner says. In seasons of light rainfall, spraying with Bordeaux may make the difference between success and failure with the potato or tomato crop.

Bordeaux mixture is made by dissolving five pounds of copper sulphate in 25 gallons of water and slaking five pounds of fresh stone lime in another 25 gallons. These two solutions then are poured thru a strainer into a spray tank at the same time. A small quantity of about 5 gallons may be made by using one-half pound each of copper sulphate and lime.

A Good Little Liar

By CLARA DELAFIELD

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union

Hatchem's was the slickest cheap restaurant in town, and Aggie was Hatchem's slickest hash-slinger. It was reported that professional conjurers sometimes frequented Hatchem's to watch Aggie balancing poached eggs on quince on top of three orders of flapjacks, five cups of coffee and four bowls of mock turtle.

That, of course, was an invention, but Hatchem's being in the theater district, many men who could have afforded better meals did drop in to Hatchem's. It was a sort of meeting place for peopla who wanted to talk over things.

Aggie lived in Harlem with her widowed mother, and her life was uneventful. She was engaged to be married to Bill McGurk, who drove an ice-wagon and was waiting for a raise before popping the golden circle over Aggie's slim finger. Aggie had had plenty of beaux before Bill, but when they tried to get fresh she squashed them flatter than a stale pancake.

And she could give as good as she got from any of the smart Alices who frequented Hatchem's. There was not an ounce of sentiment about Aggie.

That was why she bore an abounding grievance against Bill the Brute. That wasn't his name. He was a dark, athletic, well-dressed man of about forty, and he happened in one evening when the restaurant was comparatively empty.

"Give me a plate of ham and eggs," he said.

Aggie brought it, and he toyed with the ham and played with the eggs.

"I don't like these eggs," he said presently.

"What's wrong with 'em?" snapped Aggie.

"I want 'em laid over again," said Bill the Brute.

"Somebody's slipped a pair of roosters inside 'em. Gimme my check."

"You wait!" said Aggie under her breath. "I'll know you again in a million years."

It was three months before Bill the Brute returned. This time he came with a lady, about the time the theater closed.

"Stenog," sniffed Aggie. "Not yours, though, Bill. That kind don't go out to supper with the boss."

Aggie, watching them like a hawk, as she fox-trotted along the restaurant, bunny-bugging a pyramid of orders, saw that something was doing.

"He's made her cry," she said, as they rose to depart. "Can this be love? Oh, Bill McGurk, come to me!"

After that the little stenographer took to coming to the restaurant for lunch and supper. Aggie surmised that she worked late. At lunch she ate a hurried meal and went away quickly, but at supper she waited till—sometimes—Bill the Brute came in and sat down beside her. Then her face would light up.

"But he's a married man," snapped Aggie to the lamb croquettes and pea twins. "That kind always are. Pale of roosters, eh, Bill?"

The next time Bill the Brute joined the girl in the evening Aggie saw that he was trying to persuade her to do something or other. It was pitiful to see the indecision and doubt and trust on her face, too, as she looked at Bill.

"I guess girls don't look like that when single men tell them they're the main squeeze," Aggie soliloquized. "If I'd looked that way, Bill'd have sent for the plumber. Pair of roosters, eh?"

"Waitress, my check!" called Bill the Brute from his corner. "Then it's all settled, dear," Aggie heard him say under his breath as she rose from the table.

He made his way in front of her to the desk. There were two or three in front of him. The girl waited beside the door.

"Scrambled eggs on toast, coffee, and a pair of doughnuts!" called one of the regulars.

"Coming?" said Aggie, staggering under an Eiffel tower of dishes.

She one-stepped up to the girl. "Say! You put that gink where he belongs!" she whispered. "Can him! See? I'll tell you why in a minute."

"Steved eels and ham!" cried another regular from across the room.

"Coming!" said Aggie, depositing the scrambled eggs on the marble-top. "I was a good girl once!" she whispered, as she cantered past the door. "I was a honest, hard-working stenographer, and he—he brought me to this. Put him out of your heart, lady; he's got a wife and family over in Brooklyn, and he's deceiving you. I learned it—too late, too late."

With frightened eyes and quivering lips the little stenographer darted through the doorway, just as Bill the Brute was paying his check.

"Bucks and the golden!" called a patron from beside the umbrella-stand. "Coming!" cried Aggie.

The Fireside Forum.

"My dear," said Mr. Gadspar, mildly, "of course I like for you to be interested in politics, but when we spend a quiet evening at home I wish it were possible for us to discuss some other subject."

"What, for instance?"

"Well, before you entered public life and felt called upon to solve problems of national importance you used to retail interesting bits of gossip about the neighbors. I'll admit that there isn't much mental pabulum in that sort of talk, but it at least keeps me from getting sleepy two hours before my usual bedtime."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

MANY LEGENDS OF THE OAK

Tree's Grandeur and Beauty Seem to Have Impressed Each Ancient Race in Turn.

The ancient races, struck with the noble aspect of the oak, have in all ages enveloped it in the clouds of their legends and carried it back to the remotest antiquity. Of this class was the holm oak, which in the days of Pliny still existed near Rome, on the trunk of which was an Etruscan inscription in letters of brass stating that before the existence of the Eternal city it was already the object of popular veneration. The Roman naturalist also asserts that in the environs of Heracles, in the kingdom of Pontus, there was a tradition that two oaks which overshadowed the altar of Jupiter Straglus had been planted by Hercules. The origin of certain trees is lost in even remote antiquity.

The imposing terror of the Hercynian forest has deeply impressed all those who have described Germany, and Pliny and Tacitus especially. The aged oaks of its somber vales, where wandered the elk and the aurochs, especially aroused the admiration of the Roman historian. "The majestic grandeur of the oak in this forest," he says, "surpasses all imaginable belief; this tree has never been touched with the ax; it is contemporary with the creation of the world and appears to be the symbol of immortality."

RED COW UNDER SUSPICION

Silly English Superstition That Her Milk Would Make the Hair of Baby Red.

A director of a London dairy company told a correspondent recently at a dairy show a circumstance illustrating a belief that existed not long ago in connection with a cow's milk.

It was in the days when many London dairies kept a few cows at the back of the establishment, partly to give the impression that the daily milk supply was all derived from these cows, or to enable the proprietor to meet the wants of his customers in special cases for infant feeding. The shop had been closed for the day, when a woman called to ask for new milk for a baby. This was supplied.

Shortly after the woman called again and asked: "Can you tell me the color of the cow you took that milk from?"

The owner of the establishment said he was not quite sure, but would go and see. He went and returned saying: "It was a black cow, but why do you want to know?"

"Well, sir," she replied, "if it had been a red cow my mistress would have asked you to change the milk, as the baby would then have had red hair, and she does not want that."—London Morning Post.

A Yankee Samson.

For a long time Grandfather Higgins insisted that he was a very light sleeper and that a slight noise would always waken him. On the other hand, grandmother was sure that he could sleep sounder than the ordinary person—so sure, indeed, that she declared she could cut off his whiskers some night without his knowing it until morning. Grandfather retorted that, if she could succeed in doing it, he would go with her to visit their son in Idaho.

For a few days grandmother said no more about it; apparently both had forgotten the conversation. But one morning when grandfather awoke his throat and the lower part of his face felt unusually cold. He sat up in bed, put his hand to his face, and uttering a little cry, jumped up and hurried to the mirror. Sure enough, his whiskers were gone. He looked round in bewilderment and saw a mass of grayish-white hair and a pair of grandmother's shears on a chair beside the bed. Grandmother was right!—Youth's Companion.

Mardi Gras at New Orleans.

The New Orleans observance of the Mardi Gras has been growing steadily since its establishment in 1830, and is now numbered among the most brilliant of the public and social festivities of the United States. His Majesty Rex, the king of the carnival, first rode at the head of a body of Arab troops in honor of the Russian Grand Duke Alexis in 1872. The experiment was a success, and Rex became an established favorite. The "Mystic Crews of Comus," however, antedates this portion of the carnival by some 15 years, for it was in 1857 that the first "Mystic Crew" appeared in a fantastic night parade of gorgeous floats, manned by masked revelers. But so many additions have been made to the Mardi Gras that now Rex and Comus are only two features of a magnificent celebration which embraces the entire city.

Good Whistler Story.

"One of Whistler's stories was of Burne-Jones and himself going to a country fair and wandering into a sideshow to see a tattooed lady—and he was afraid to say how many subjects were tattooed on her—on one knee the American Eagle, on the other, the Union Jack, and on her back Leonardo's Last Supper. And she really was amazing, and they enjoyed it hugely. Some four or five years afterward, in London, Burne-Jones burst in upon Whistler, and told him the same tattooed lady was at the Aquarium, and they must go and see her again. And they went and she had grown very stout in the meanwhile and when they looked at the Last Supper, all the apostles wore a broad grin."—From "The Whistler Journal" by E. R. and J. Pennell.

Badger Villages.

Badgers live in burrows which they dig themselves and in some parts of the West these burrows are numerous in small areas, says the American Forestry Magazine. Although they were all the work of badgers, many of them had been dug to secure gophers, prairie marmots, mice and other rodents, upon which they prey. These burrows, often covering several acres, are a source of constant annoyance and danger to travelers on horseback.

Those from here who attended the 67th. annual Conference of the S. B. C., at Jacksonville, Fla., the land of sunshine and flowers, report a splendid trip and one of the best sessions of the conventions. The windows were decorated with every known vegetable and citrus fruits, which will be weeks before Kentucky participates of the same. The delegates and visitors received a cordial welcome, not only from the Baptists of Florida, but the city at large. In every shop window you could read "Welcome Baptists," on the Taxis "Hop in Baptists," even the placards near the water's edge, "Hop in Baptists." The side trips to the beaches and to the historic town of St. Augustine, and other points of interest and the delightful climate made it a trip to be coveted.

TEACHERS

SALARIES

Scheduled by Board of Education and Approved by Supt. Colvin

The following schedule has been arranged and approved by the County Board of Education and has been endorsed by State Superintendent George Colvin. The schedule is for the year 1922-23.

The salary schedule must be made by the County Board of Education and submitted in duplicate to the State Board of Education for approval by the State Board before teachers' contracts are made; and approved schedule must be in effect before any payments are made to teachers.

No teacher can be legally employed who does not hold at the time of his employment a proper legal certificate which will not expire during the term for which he is employed.

The first 25c of the county school levy must be devoted exclusively to supplementing teachers' salaries, or as much of it as is needed to meet the salary schedule and the minimum salary law. In those counties where the 25c levy when added to the state per capita is not sufficient to meet the minimum salary law, the county board may pay a lower salary than the legal minimum.

Salaries in no county ought to be uniform, but the salary paid should have a direct relation to the teacher's preparation and experience.

This salary schedule must be kept posted in the county superintendent's office, and must be published in the local paper. It must be made the basis and a part of the teacher's contract.

The salaries of all teachers employed by the county board of education, whether teaching in the elementary schools of the county or in county schools, will be based on the following:

Preparation

Graduates of the 8th. grade, $75; plus 1 year of high school, $76.00; plus 2 years of high school, $77.00; plus 3 years of high school, $78.00; plus 4 years of high school, $80.00; plus 1 year of normal, $77; plus 2 years of normal, $80.00; plus 3 years of normal, $85.00; Graduates of a 4 year standard high school plus 1 year of normal, $88.00; plus 2 years of normal, $95.00; plus 1 year of college or university, $88.00; plus 2 years of college or university, $95; plus 3 years of college or university, $97.00; plus 4 years of college or university, $100.00; six weeks or more at a summer school (1922), $5.00.

Under no condition shall any high school assistant teacher receive more than $1,000.00 for 9 months teaching.

Attendance

60 per cent of the census, $2.00; 70 per cent of the census, $3.00; 80 per cent, $4.00; 90 per cent, $5.00.

Supervision

Under no condition shall any Principal of Graded or High School receive more than $1,500.00 for 9 months service.

Spring In Kentucky

The blackbirds sway on the cattails dense

In the marshes where the tadpoles lie,

The meadow larks thrill from the old rail fence

As the crows go a-sailing by.

A red breast robin rears with his might

As he tugs at a worm in the ground

And a mocking bird sweet gives wing to flight

For fear that her nest will be found.

The shrike stands in the lily bed

Where he waits for the minnow and craw,

And the forked-tail cat and the sun-fish red

Dart down from the kingfisher's claw.

The sunbeams dance on the chuck hole deep

And the ripples sing a song of joy:

Oh, God! but it's nice just to take one peep

At the time when I was a boy!

HOW SOUND IS TRANSMITTED

Vibration of the Air Brings It to the Ear—Travels Faster in Summer Than in Winter.

Sound is transmitted to the ear by the vibration of the air. When one particle of air is made to vibrate it sets the adjacent particles to vibrating, and so a sound wave, if not obstructed, passes in all directions from the sounding body. The calculated velocity of sound in the air when the temperature is at freezing point is 915.69 feet per second. When the temperature increases, sound travels faster, and the rate has been calculated at a little more than one foot per second for each degree of rise in Fahrenheit's thermometer. Contrary to popular belief, sound travels faster in summer than in winter, and in warm than in cold climates. It might be thought that sound would travel more slowly through a dense atmosphere, but the elasticity increases as rapidly as the density, and, therefore, the velocity of sound is not affected by varying density. The velocity of sound in water, when at the greatest density, is 4,707.4 feet per second. The experiments by which this velocity was determined were made by M. Colladon, in 1826, across the Lake of Geneva, from Rolle to Thonon, a distance of about nine miles. Water, therefore, transmits sound four times as fast as air does.

NO OLD AGE PROBLEM HERE

Indians of the Andes Mountains Kill Those of Race Who Reach Fateful Limit.

High in the fastnesses of the Andes mountains of Peru there lives a race which sets an age limit and kills all of its people who reach the fateful mark. In each village an official is appointed to terminate the careers of persons who live too long.

Different communities, however, have different ideas as to what limit should be placed on human existence. In some places the only duty of the executioner appears to be to secure the presence of a man at his own funeral in the "title role." If a person becomes so ill that his funeral becomes a certainty in the near future, a date is fixed for the same, and if the leading figure shows a disposition to be unpunctual, the village executioner takes the matter in hand.

The Andes natives are of Indian descent, possibly from the Quichua Indians, according to scientists. They live in adobe hovels and are said never to remove their clothing. They are very shy and have no diversions aside from chewing coca leaves, from which modern scientists extract cocaine.

Put an Idea Across.

Whether it was mental telepathy or a mere coincidence, I cannot say, but this is what happened:

On a railway station platform at some distance from me stood an immigrant family. The father carried no bundles, but the mother was loaded like a pack mule. In one hand she held a bundle resembling a large week's wash tied up in a sheet. The other arm bore a weighty looking basket and a husky baby.

For about 20 minutes I looked on as that woman in sort of dumb patience stood there motionless under that awful load. It was positively nerve-racking to watch her, and finally I yelled to her, mentally: "For heaven's sake drop those bundles!"

Instantly the woman let go of the bundle, handed the baby to her husband, placed the basket on top of the big bundle, folded her hands over her stomach and heaved a sigh of relief.—Kansas City Star.

Go Back to Fifteenth Century.

If anything should astonish us about trees it is their longevity. The life of animals is ephemeral compared to that of our trees. The pine and great chestnut can assuredly extend their existence to a term of 400 or 500 years. In the Island of Tenerife are found many venerable pines and enormous chestnut trees which in all probability were planted there by the conquistadores at the commencement of the Fifteenth century, the epoch of the invasion of the island.

The former are distinguished from the others, owing to the conquerors having in their piety decorated them nearly all with little madonnas, which are still seen suspended to their boughs.

Man's Marvelous Memory.

A man who has developed his memory until he has an amazing store of information on a wide variety of subjects has been discovered at Birchencliffe, Huddersfield.

He is John Holroyd, a builder's laborer, and he is self-taught.

Holroyd has 31,000 facts stored away in his brain. He can name every man who has played football for his country, and the winners of all classic races since 1800.

Another of his specialties is cricket scores and results. He can tell you the birthdays of national and local celebrities. Once he hears a date he never forgets it, and he has more than once set parents right as to the birthdays of their children.—London Tit-Bits.

Suspicion Confirmed.

"It says here that surgeons have discovered that orange blossoms may be used as an anesthetic," said Mrs. Henpeck.

"I always did believe that I was unconscious when we were married," remarked Mr. Henpeck.

Epidemic of 'Methodist Mumps' Attacks Community in Madison

A news dispatch from Richmond says that an epidemic known as "Methodist mumps" has visited in most every home in the community near the backwoods school house in Madison county, where the Rev. R. D. Horton, evangelist and Virgil L. Moore, singer, of Chaplin, Ky., conducted a revival.

At one of the evening services the singer developed mumps and in less than 24 hours 50 persons in the congregation were stricken.

The victims say this is the worst form of mumps that ever visited that section, because it can be caught from a Methodist preacher, and is so dry it won't permit a man water enough to wash his face or comb his hair.

The evangelist said he would leave something in the county that the people would not forget soon. The afflicted residents say if the evangelist knew what they were saying about him he would not want to make a return engagement.

Not Becoming, Perhaps.
No woman is so angelic as to prefer a halo to a hat.—London Opinion.

Really Happy Man.
I look on that man as happy who, when there is a question of success, looks into his work for a reply, not into the market, not into opinion, not into patronage.—Emerson.

Men Lead in Suicide Toll.
The proportion of men to women suicides in the United States is more than two to one. With the men shooting is the favorite means, while the majority of women suicides use poison.

The Garden Brook.
And there a brook should murmur with a voice of outdoor happiness; and a little garden brimming over with flowers should mark the days, and weeks, and months with bud and blossom.—Douglas Jerrold.

Hungarian Melodies.
The Serbian melodies are solemn and impressive. Hungarian songs, on the other hand, show vitality and impetuosity. They are mostly in two-four time, but both rhythms and the time change continually.

Mental Exercise.
Owing to the changing effect of the moon upon the tides the motion of the earth is being retarded about one second every thousand years. If you have nothing else to worry about, worry about that.

Probably.
When a girl admits she didn't mean what she said about refusing to take back her promise to change her mind, she was probably mistaken in the first place, and doesn't really mean it.

Missed Something.
Little Ray was being shown a bust of his distinguished grandfather who had died before Ray was born. The youngster gazed at the bust awhile in perplexed silence; then he inquired innocently, "Is that all there was of him?"—Boston Transcript.

Celebrated for Untruthfulness.
Ananias was a Bible character particularly celebrated for his untruthfulness. As a member of the young church of Jerusalem he conspired with his wife, Sapphira, to make false pretenses respecting their gift of property to the community of the brethren, and was, with his wife, stricken dead. Ananias has since become the name in common parlance for one who notoriously takes liberties with the truth.

Alice's Other Man By ELLA SAUNDERS

Alice Carruthers kissed her husband at the door and watched him stride down the street toward the station. He always hurried to catch the morning train, and, as she watched, she saw him break into a run. A bitter little smile hovered an instant on her lips.

Jim and she had been as happy as two children during the first year of their marriage. Then business troubles had come along, and Jim Carruthers had almost forgotten the days when he had sworn to love and cherish his little bride for all the years to come.

Alice turned back into the house, washed up the breakfast things, and then unlocked a drawer in her secretaire. She took out a bundle of letters, addressed to her at the post office, in a large masculine handwriting. Extracting one from its envelope she read:

Darling Alice:
Your letter has been in my breast pocket for days now, and if I have hesitated to reply, it is only because words seem inadequate to convey to you how much you mean to me. I love you and I love you. Is there need of anything more?

Darling, what you have told me does not surprise me in the least. I think of you as a beautiful, helpful bird in a cage, and longing for freedom. You are tied to a brute who assumes you as a commercial proposition. A wife to keep his house tidy, to minister to his comforts—nothing more.

Dearest, if you will come with me we will begin life somewhere anew, where gradually the memories of the old hateful life will become dim. You will always be all in the world to me. Will you come?
RODERICK.

Tears filled her eyes and dripped down on the pages as she read. She took up a pen, and, selecting a sheet of paper, began her answer:

My Own Dearest:
Yes, I will come with you, to the world's end, if necessary. Today he went off to his business as usual, without a thought of me. The touch of his lips was hateful to me. Surely, surely it cannot be right that two people who are so absolutely incompatible should always be chained together.

I love you, Roderick, darling, and I shall love you with my whole heart until I die. I am yours forever. I will take the 6:30 this evening and get out at Southport. Meet me there, and then—I am ready to obey your commands and as where you will.
ALICE.

She put away the letters and, folding the one she had written, addressed an envelope, slipped it inside, and carried it to the letter-box at the corner. And all the rest of that day she moved about within the house, happy in the thought of what the evening would bring. When the afternoon was almost gone she put on her hat and made her way out of the house toward the station. Never again would she see the hateful prison that had once been a little nest for herself and Jim.

The thought that she was going to her lover made her heart beat more quickly, and a tender smile curved her lips as she pictured Roderick, in his strength, his simplicity, his goodness. And she paced the platform of the station in a fever of impatience, waiting for the train from the city that was to bear her onward to Southport. It came hissing up to the platform at last, and among the crowd of descending passengers she saw Jim.

They saw each other mutually. He hurried toward her and folded her in his arms.
"Alice, dear!"
"Jim, darling!"

"Good news, Alice. That business trouble is settled now, and I'm to have Gleason's post at a thousand more a year. There'll be more leisure for us now, and more happiness for you."

"Oh, Jim, dear, I'm so glad!" She slipped her arm through his and they started up the hill together.

"I've been reproaching myself all day for the way I've been neglecting you of late, Alice," he said.

"Never mind, Jim. I knew you were worried. You—you're sure you love me as much as ever?"

"What a question, sweetheart!" He laughed, and there was a little pause.

"Jim, dear, will you think me awfully wicked if I confess something to you?"

"Out with it!" he laughed. "I've forgiven you already, Alice."

"Ah, but it's terrible," she cried. "You know, when I wasn't sure you really cared, I—I wrote myself a love letter from an imaginary man, and pretended to put an answer, and we—were going to run away together. Only, I—I knew all the time that it was you."

Trees That Tell the Soil Moisture.
An interesting possibility was brought out by Dr. Sam F. Trelease of Johns Hopkins university in his paper before the physiological section of the Botanical Society of America. He pointed out that the leaflets of the coconut, banana and manilla trees folded along their midribs during the hotter and drier periods of the day or longer periods, and opened again at night, and during moisture periods—especially very soon after a fall of rain.

This was shown to be due to the swelling or shrinking of two strips of tissue along the midrib which act as hinges. These changes are very regular and have been proved to happen with a definite relation to the amount of water absorbed by the plant.

He suggested the possibility of using this phenomenon in connection with irrigation not only in crops of the trees mentioned but also in crops in the vicinity of which the above trees could be grown as indicators of the water content in the soil.—Cleveland News-Leader.
